Dennis Oehler

Dennis Oehler became a below-the-knee amputee at the age of 24 as a result of an automobile accident. A promising athlete before his accident, Dennis became determined to resume his athletic endeavors after witnessing the courage and determination of Paralympic athletes first-hand. Dennis' determination gained him a spot on the 1988 Paralympic Track and Field Team in Seoul, South Korea. In Seoul, Dennis set the world record for the 100m event and won additional gold medals in the 200m and 400m events. He also medaled in both running and long jumping events at the Atlanta and Barcelona Olympic Games.

Now retired from competitive athletics, Dennis teams with Todd to provide amputee rehabilitation training and educational programs throughout the U.S. and internationally.

Todd Schaffhauser

Todd Schaffhauser became an above-the-knee amputee at the age of 15 as a result of cancer. Todd's surgery and 18 months of chemotherapy treatments had left him barely able to walk even a short distance. Determined to regain an active lifestyle, Todd began a journey of rehabilitation that would lead him to international athletic acclaim. Long hours walking hallways in his home mastering his gait led to Todd's desire to run. In 1988, just four years after his amputation, Todd became the world's fastest above-the-knee amputee by setting the world record in the 100 meters at the Paralympic Games in Seoul, South Korea. That world record of 15.77 seconds would last until 1995 when Todd broke it again by running the 100 meters in 14.55 seconds at the World Games in Germany.

Todd's competitive athletic days are passed but his example of goal-setting and determination continues. He has joined with Dennis to provide a unique combination of educational programs ranging from fitness and gait training clinics to motivational and inspirational messages for schools.
